Cowling Community Primary School SEN information report
Code of Practice 6.79

'The governing bodies of maintained schools and maintained nursery schools and the proprietors of academy schools have a legal duty to publish information on their websites about the implementation of the governing body's or the proprietor's policy for pupils with SEN. The information published must be updated annually and any changes to the information occurring during the year must be updated as soon as possible. The information required is set out in the draft Special Educational Needs (Information) Regulations and reflects the information required for the local offer'.

Schools should ensure that the information is easily accessible by parents and is set out in clear, straightforward language. This should include information on the school's SEN policy, named contacts within the school where parents have concerns and details of the school's contribution to the local offer.

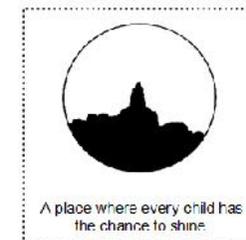

In setting out details of the broad and balanced curriculum provided in each year, schools should include details of how the curriculum is adapted or made accessible for pupils with SEN.

Provision for children with SEND

At Cowling CP school it is our aim:

- For all children to be included in and to have access to a broad, balanced and relevant curriculum.
- For children to achieve the very best they are capable of.
- For children to experience a wide range of activities leading to greater independence and decision making.
- For children to be happy and to demonstrate personal development.
- For children's needs to be identified early and or all learners to be well equipped to meet those needs.

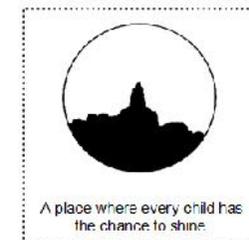

The following information briefly outlines SEND provision at Cowling CP school.

	North Yorkshire 'offer'	School 'offer'
Inclusion Quality Mark	Many North Yorkshire schools have used our Inclusion Quality Mark (IQM) to evaluate how successfully they include all learners, including those with SEND. The IQM allows schools to show how they are benefitting different groups of learners, and how their outcomes are improving as a result of their work. A full list of North Yorkshire schools currently holding the IQM is available.	Cowling CP school has achieved the Inclusion Quality Mark (IQM) Level 2 – Enhancing Inclusion (2014). This allows us to demonstrate and evaluate how successfully we include all learners, including children with SEND. We have identified areas in which we feel confident that we already carry out in school and also flagged up areas for development which are currently being addressed. Provision	lessons is the most important factor in helping pupils with SEND to make good progress alongside their peers. Your school will be able to describe some of the approaches that classroom teachers and other staff will be using throughout the day to help address your child's needs within lessons. They may also be able to share with you the school's overall plan of support (provision map), which outlines many of these strategies. The school must have a named governor who holds the school to account for making good provision for pupils with SEND.	quality first teaching so that all children can make good progress with their learning. Lessons are carefully differentiated to meet the needs of all children whatever their learning style. Staff use a variety of teaching styles and resources in lessons to support children's learning. The school places great importance on the fact that children learn in different ways. If you would like to know more about what is going on to support your child in the classroom make an appointment to speak to the class teacher who will be happy to share this information with you.
Recording Provision	Where the school feels that something additional or different is needed to support your child because they have SEND they will discuss this carefully with you. This information may well be recorded in a document for you and your child, known as an individual provision map or an individual education plan. This should include:- details of any strategies being used to support your child in class; details of any extra support or interventions for your child; your child's learning targets; the next date when your child's progress will be reviewed.	Children who have been identified as needing some additional support may have a personal or group provision map. These describe the child's individual strengths and needs and the type of support they will need to help them make progress. They will include specific targets and how they are to be met. If a child has had lots of input, possibly including external agencies, to support their learning an Inclusion Passport is likely to be developed as this will outline all that has been accessed by the child and how successful it is, as well as tell the story of the child – more can be found about Inclusion Passports in the designated section.

Interventions	Schools use a range of interventions to support pupils with SEND to make better progress. Interventions are structured learning programmes. Your school will be able to explain to you: what interventions your child is receiving and what are the intended learning outcomes; when during the week any interventions will be delivered and for how many weeks; who will be delivering the interventions (usually a well trained teaching assistant) and where (e.g. in class or outside the classroom); how the interventions will relate to and support learning in the classroom; how they will be monitored closely to make sure they are helping your child to make accelerated progress.	At Cowling we are able to offer a wide variety of interventions that we will tailor to the needs of the child. Interventions are carefully monitored in order to ensure that they have an impact on children’s learning. Staff receive regular training and support provided by a number of different agencies. All interventions are recorded on an Intervention map each term.
Extra Adult Support	There may be occasions when the school feels that some additional support within lessons may help your child to make better progress. This is by no means always the case. However, if some additional small group or one to one support within lessons is planned, the school will explain how this will work, what the aims	Cowling School has a number of skilled teaching assistants who support both individual and groups of children throughout school. Although, from time to time, children may need a high level of individual support, our aim is always to help children to be more independent in lessons.

	of this support will be and how and when the impact of this support will be reviewed. Most importantly, this support should be aiming to make your child more independent in lessons.	Staff receive regular training in different areas of SEND.
Expected Progress	All pupils with SEND should make at least expected progress, in line with their peers. Your school will be able to explain how it will be monitoring your child's progress to ensure that it is at least in line with expectations. This will usually include progress make with personal targets, and overall progress with National Curriculum levels.	When children enter primary school there are natural expectations which are the average levels for children at the end of an academic year/key stage Y1 1b/1a Y2 2b/2a Y3 2a/3c Y4 3b/3a Y5 3a/4c Y6 4b/4a The levelling system will be replaced with a new assessment system for all pupils during the academic year 2015-2016. Not all children will be able to achieve these national expectations, and so some additional support may be needed to help a child to make progress. Progress of all children is reviewed regularly to make sure that they are making expected progress. Progress of children with SEND is reviewed biannually by the SENCO and Chair of Governors. Parents and carers have the opportunity to discuss your child's progress at the parent/teacher consultation

Support from other agencies	The Local Authority offers a range of specialist support and outreach services, including educational psychologists and local enhanced mainstream schools, to help schools to deliver appropriate support and interventions. Other specialists such as speech and language therapists can also support schools in this. If the school feels that the involvement of another agency will help the m to meet your child’s needs you will be informed and asked to give your consent.	evenings and at review meetings. Sometimes it will be helpful for school to request some additional support from an outside agency. Cowling School has established excellent working relationships with professionals from the following agencies: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>○ The Educational Psychologist</li> <li>○ School Nurse and Health Visitor</li> <li>○ Educational Social Worker</li> <li>○ Sensory, Physical and Medical Teaching Team</li> <li>○ Speech and Language Therapist</li> <li>○ Physiotherapist</li> <li>○ Occupational Therapists</li> <li>○ Paediatrician</li> <li>○ EMS schools for Speech, Language and Communication and specific learning difficulties.</li> <li>○ ASCOSS – Autistic Spectrum Condition Outreach Service</li> <li>○ Severe Learning Difficulties Team</li> </ul> Professionals from all the above agencies regularly support staff and children in school. School would only contact an outside agency after consultation with parents.
On-going communication with parents	Schools communicate regularly with parents, usually once a term, to discuss how well their child is doing. Your knowledge and understanding of your child's needs is essential to support the school in making the best provision for them. This should also take account of your and your child's hopes, personal goals and interests. This will allow the school to regularly explain to you where your child is in their learning, and to work with you to ensure the most appropriate targets are set to ensure progress. You should be informed about the National Curriculum levels at which your child is working. If you are not sure what these mean, don't be afraid to ask. On-going communication with school may include: regular contact through a home-school book or by email to keep you informed of things that are going well or particular successes; more regular meetings to update you on your child's progress and whether the support is working; clear information about the impact of any interventions; guidance for you to support your child's learning at home.	at Parent/Teacher Consultation evening and at review meetings. For some children, regular communication takes place on a daily basis through the use of a home/school book or contact with the class teacher before or after school.

This passport will follow the child as they move on to a new school and may also be shared with other agencies after consultation with parents.

Education, Health, Care Plan	For a very few children more help will be needed than is normally available through the school's own resources. Schools, parents and other agencies may decide that it is necessary to request an assessment with a view to securing an Education Health Care Plan through the local authority. Your school, or a Parent Partnership Co-ordinator can talk to you about this in more detail	From time to time children may not make progress despite receiving additional support in school and from external agencies. In consultation with parents and other agencies, the school may decide to request an assessment with a view to securing an Education, Health Care Plan in order to provide the long-term support a child may need. School is not the only organisation who can request an assessment for the Education, Health Care Plan, parents can also make a request to the local education authority.
